LAST ROUNDUP '71

One generation passes and another comes but the world forever stays. The sun rises and the sun goes down; then it presses on to the place where it rises. Blowing toward the north, then toward the south, the wind turns again and again resumes its rounds. All rivers go to the sea, yet never does the sea become full. To the place where they go, the rivers keep on going . . . What has been that will be; what has been done that will be done. Nothing is new under the sun. Even the thing of which we say, "See this new!" has already existed in the ages that preceded us. There is no remembrance of the men of old; nor of those to come will there be any remembrance among those who come after them.

Jesuit 1970-71

"sunrise doesn't last all morning cloudburst doesn't last all day . . .
all things must pass, all things must pass away."

this is the last roundup

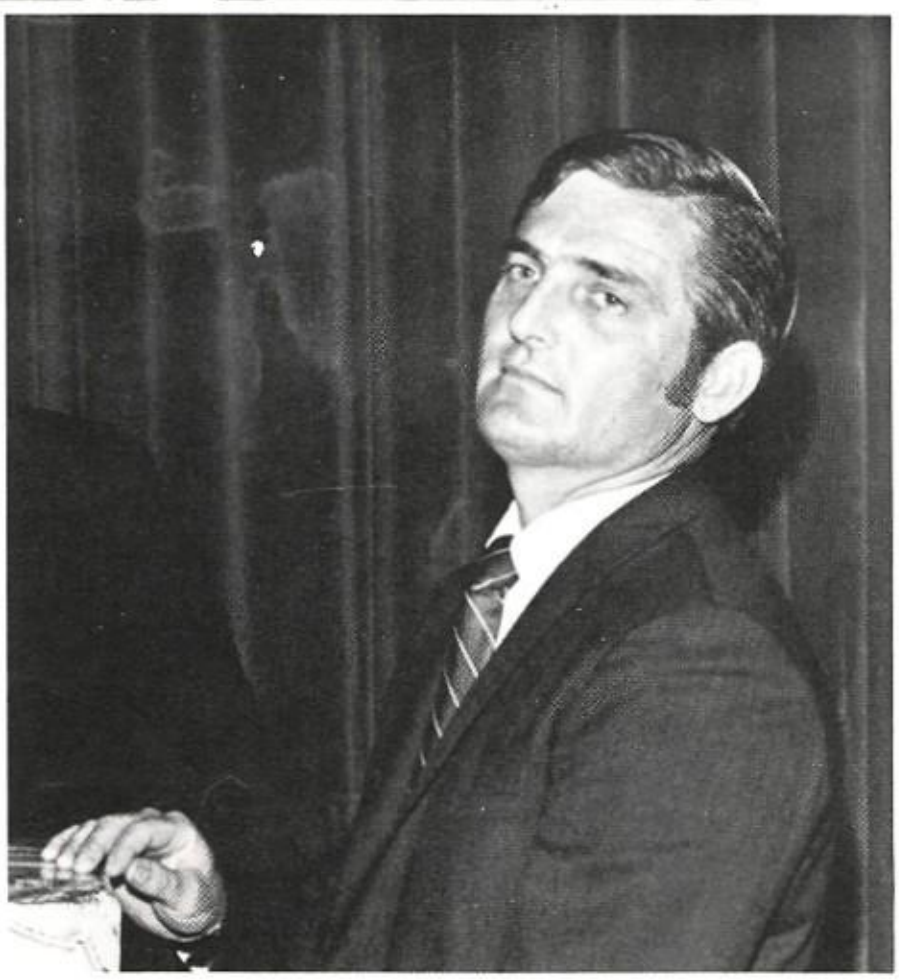

We, the senior class of 1970-71, dedicate this issue of the Last Roundup to a very remarkable man. For the past four years he has given us loyal friendship, encouragement, and understanding in our times of need. Mr. Harrison has taught us more than we could ever learn in any classroom.

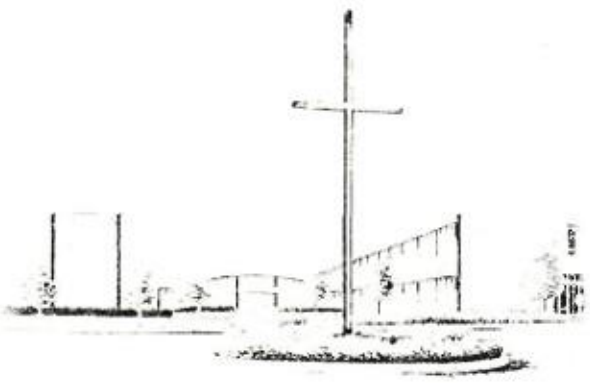

"When you part from your friend, you grieve not; For that which you love most in him may be clearer in his absence, as the mountain to the climber is clearer from the plain."

My dear Young Friends:

My association with you during your years at Jesuit has been mostly unnoticed by you. An occasional walk through the halls, a rare appearance at an assembly, a wave at you in the crowd, a final congratulations at graduation - these have been all that you have observed. Yet during all of your years at Jesuit you have been my primary concern. Your interests have occupied almost all of my time, since my job goes on for many hours longer than the ordinary school day and for twelve months of the year.

During these hours and years time and time again I have had to defend you to people who do not understand you or who have had little patience with you and your whole generation. This has meant the risk of necessary support, and has caused me much anxiety and worry. But I am not at all sorry that I did this, because I really do believe in you and have the highest hopes that you will prove me right in the long run.

Time alone will tell the true story and confirm my trust in you. But as time passes and you reflect on these things I believe the thing you will remember most about Jesuit is the opportunity it gave you to grow. You were made to learn by making some mistakes, but in this process to mature and to become ever more responsible. In this process you were taught to be concerned about the important things in life.

My farewell prayer for you is that your contribution to our society will be the ultimate vindication of Jesuit's trust in you. In some way this contribution will have to reflect the Christian ideals which have been taught in every class, every extra-curricular, every association you have experienced at Jesuit. If this turns out to be the ultimate result of your years at Jesuit all of us will have been well compensated for all the effort we have expended in your interest.

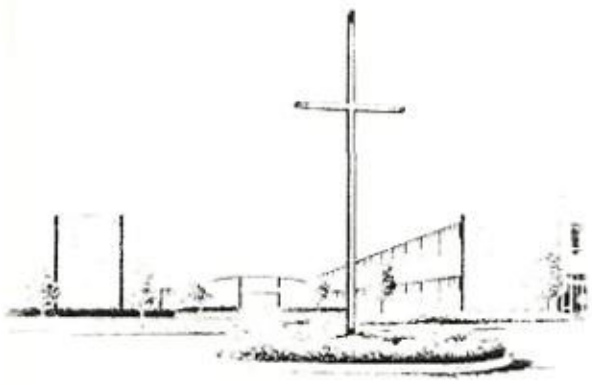

God bless you; and come and see us as often as you can.

Most sincerely in Our Lord,

Paul Schott, S.J.

To the Graduates of '71.

The Peace of Christ be with you.

In the years to come if you are able to look back upon these words and appreciate their full significance, then our work and your efforts at Jesuit to help you develop a cultured Christian maturity will not have been in vain.

"No, Lord, you do not ask of me anything that is false or beyond my power to achieve. Through your self-revealing and the power of your grace you simply compel what is most human in us to become at long last aware of itself. Humanity has been sleeping - and still sleeps - lulled within the narrowly confining joys of its little closed loves. In the depths of the human multitude there slumbers an immense spiritual power which will manifest itself only when we have learnt how to break through the dividing walls of our egoism and raise ourselves up to an entirely new perspective, so that habitually and in practical fashion we fix our gaze on the universal realities.

Lord Jesus, you who are the Savior of our human activity because you bring us a motive for acting, and the Savior of our human pain because you endow it with a life-giving value: be also the Savior of our human unity by compelling us to repudiate all our pettiness and, relying on you, to venture forth on to the uncharted ocean of charity."

Sincerely yours,

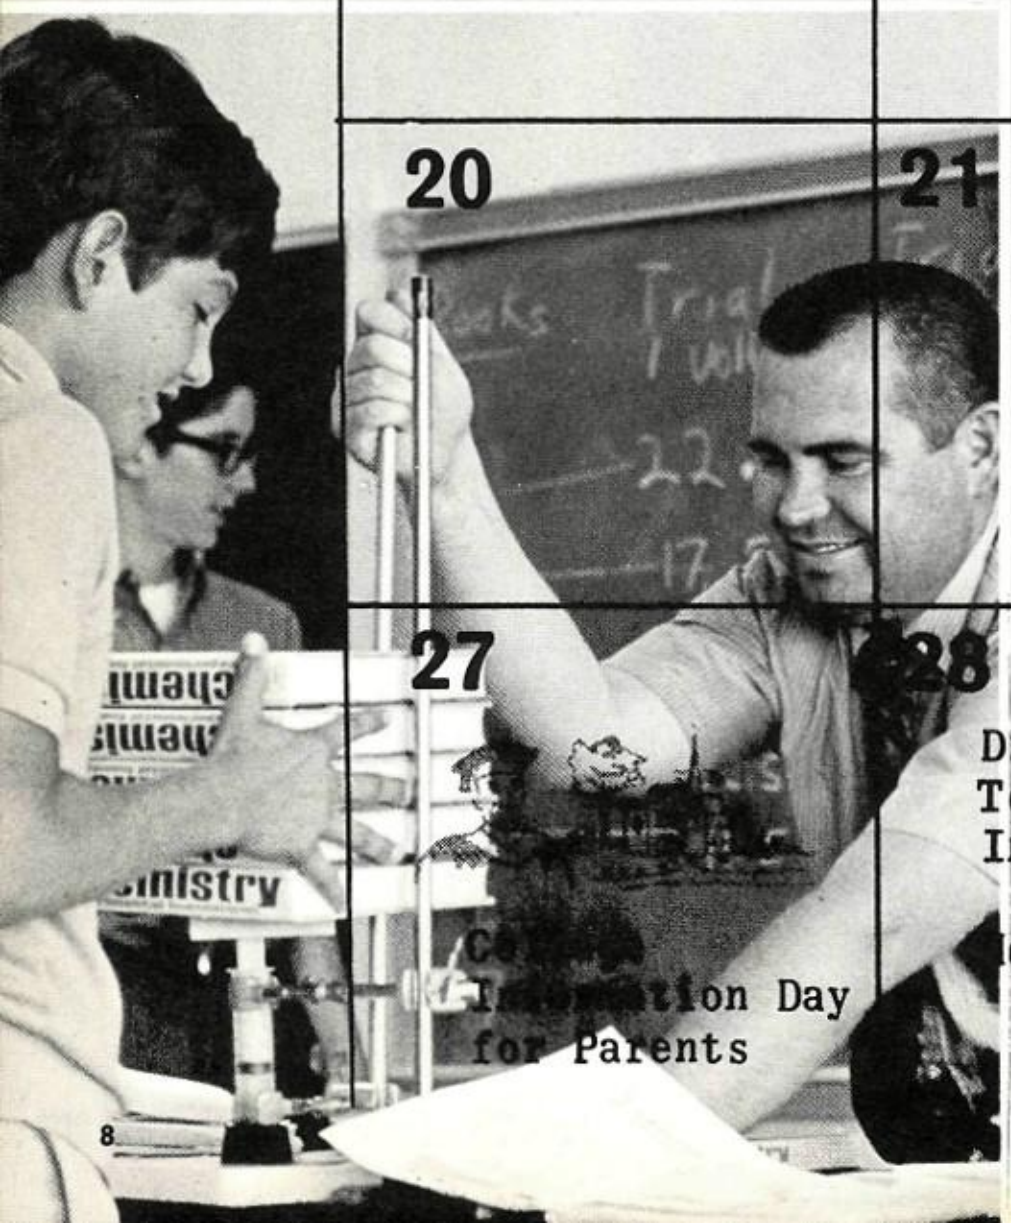

J. B. Leininger, S.J.

This must be an area of silence.

As September draws near,
school begins to threaten the relaxed safety of summer.
But that dreaded day can be put off
no longer,
it arrives,
with its books
and schedules
and put-on smiling faces.
Summer exists,
only in the minds
of those
unwilling to free themselves from its magical grasp and face the immediate challenge.
The struggle begins.

September stumbles into October unsure of what to do or where to go, but it passes nonetheless. schedules are learnt and lived by, interrupted by only a football game or an infrequent play.

a new feeling existed in the senior class as a result of the community weekend and it "tried" to find a place in the school.

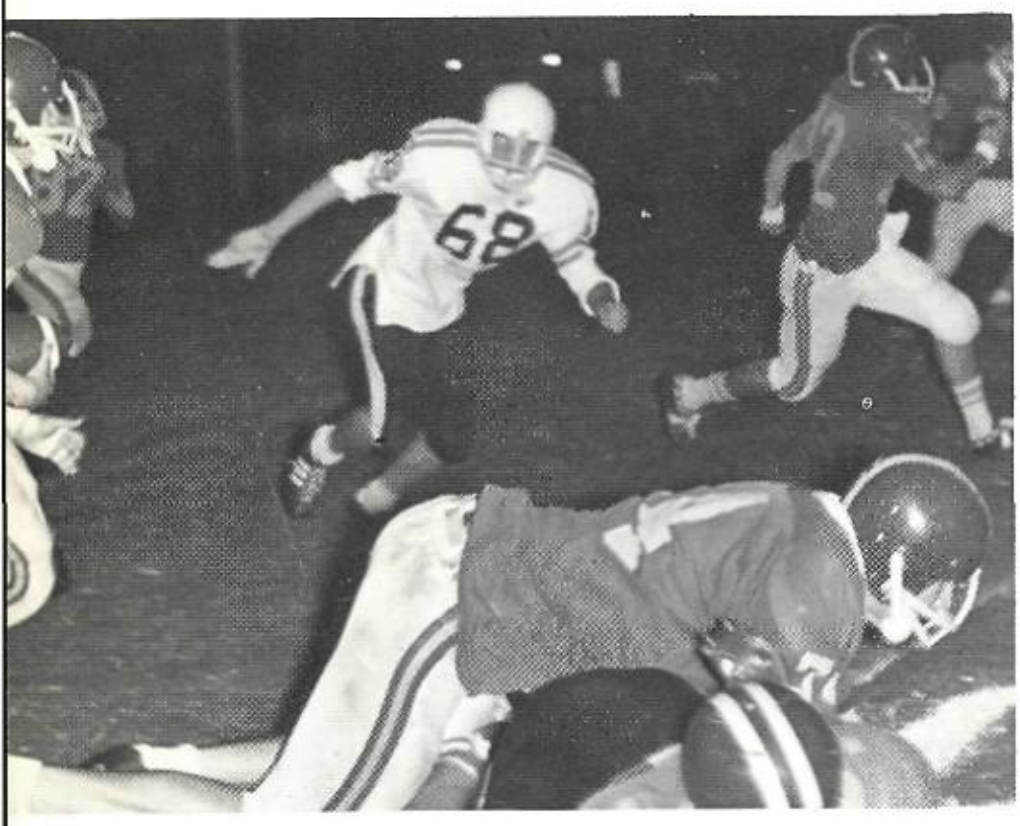

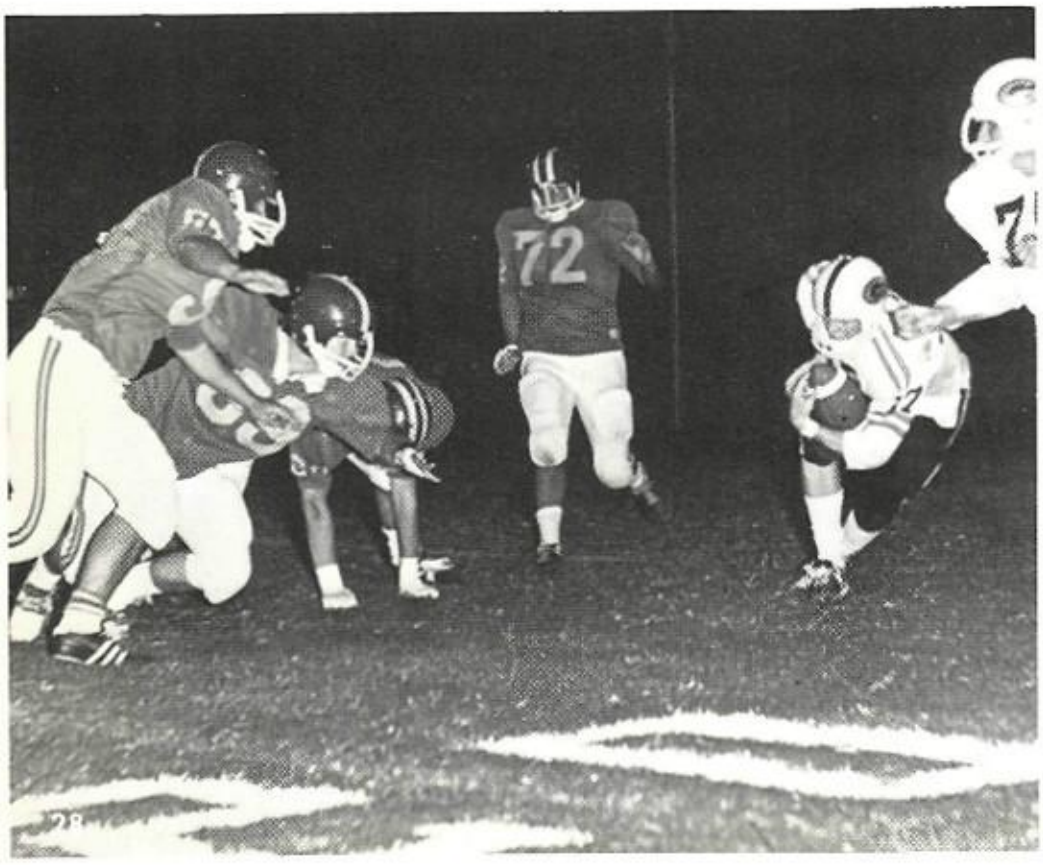

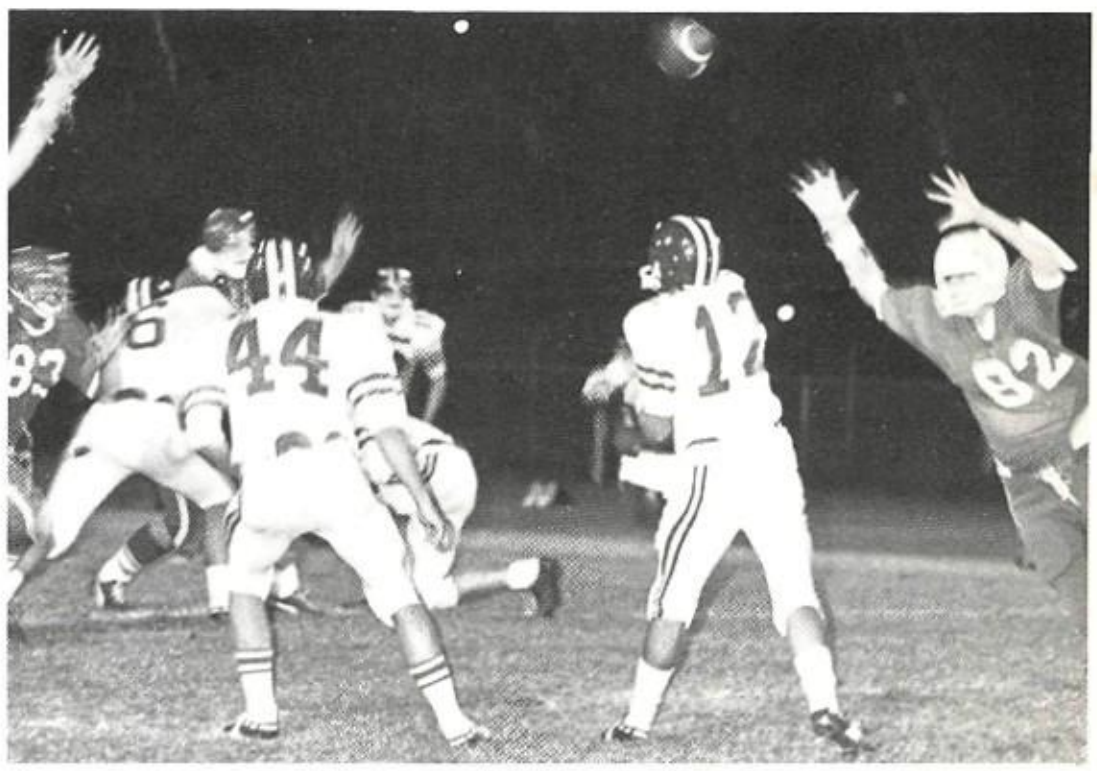

Rangers Meet The Owls

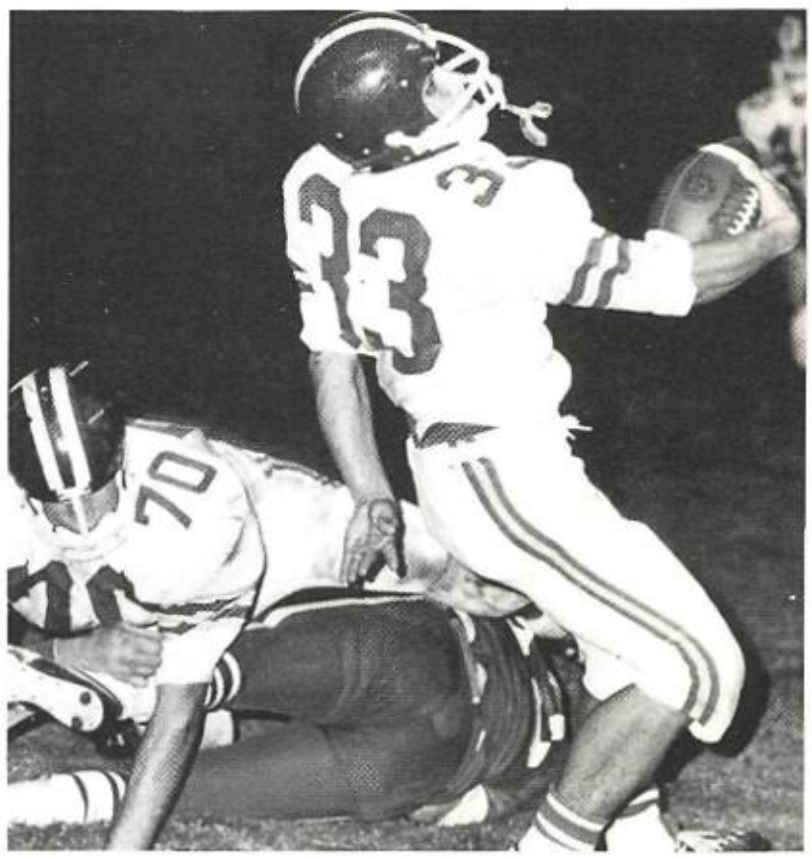

Jesuit vs. Jesuit

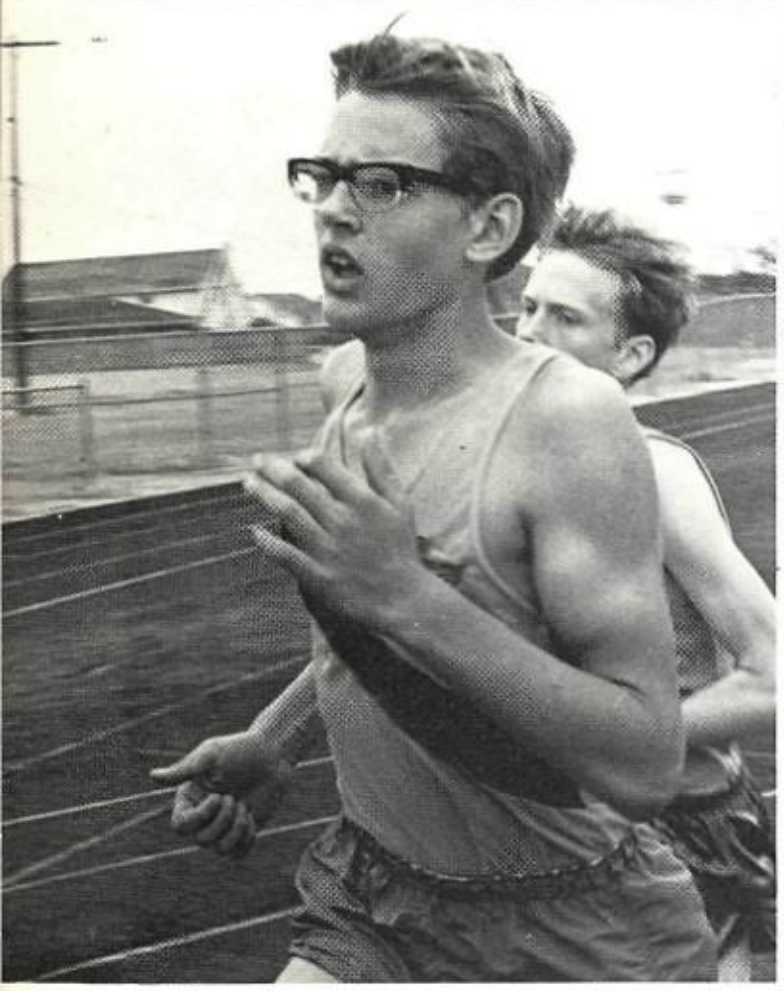

The Rangers bowed to Garland and Houston in the next two games despite outstanding performances by the defense. Garland, a powerful 4-A team capitalized on the Rangers' mistakes to earn a slim victory over the J.C.P. The loss to Houston Jesuit was very disappointing to us because little time remained to get it together before district.

A Close One (6-3) . . .

The Hillcrest game was too close,
South Oak Cliff was.

And . . .

Paul gained yardage, but not to the goal line.

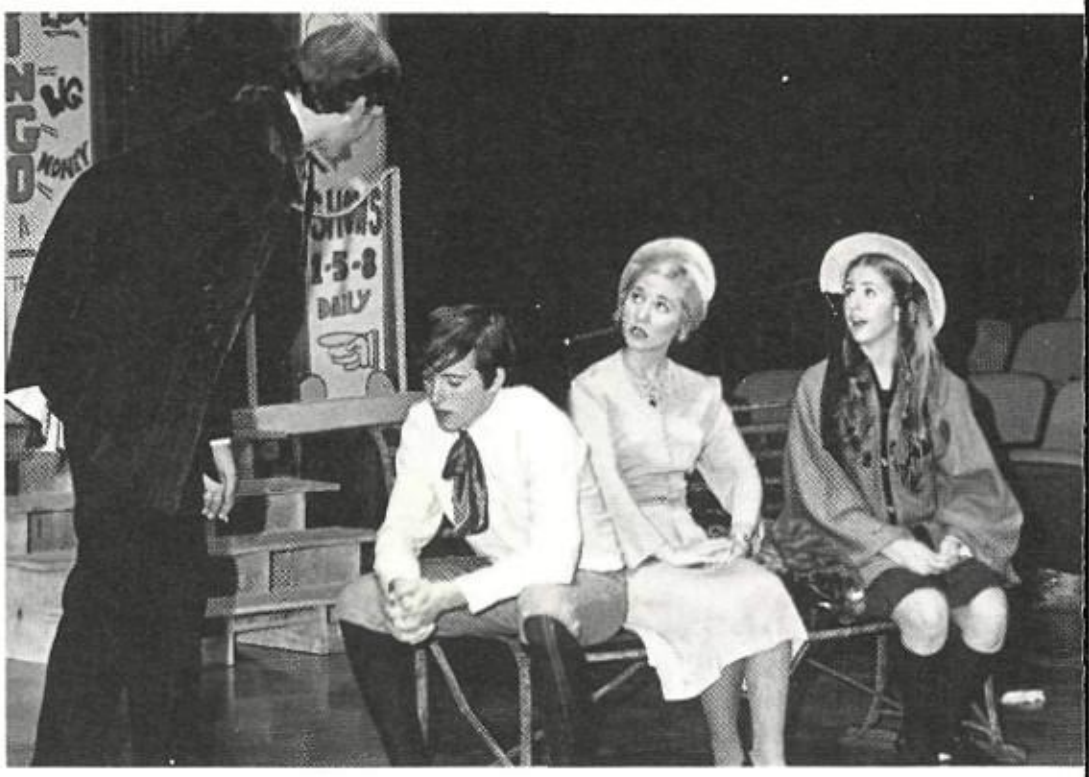

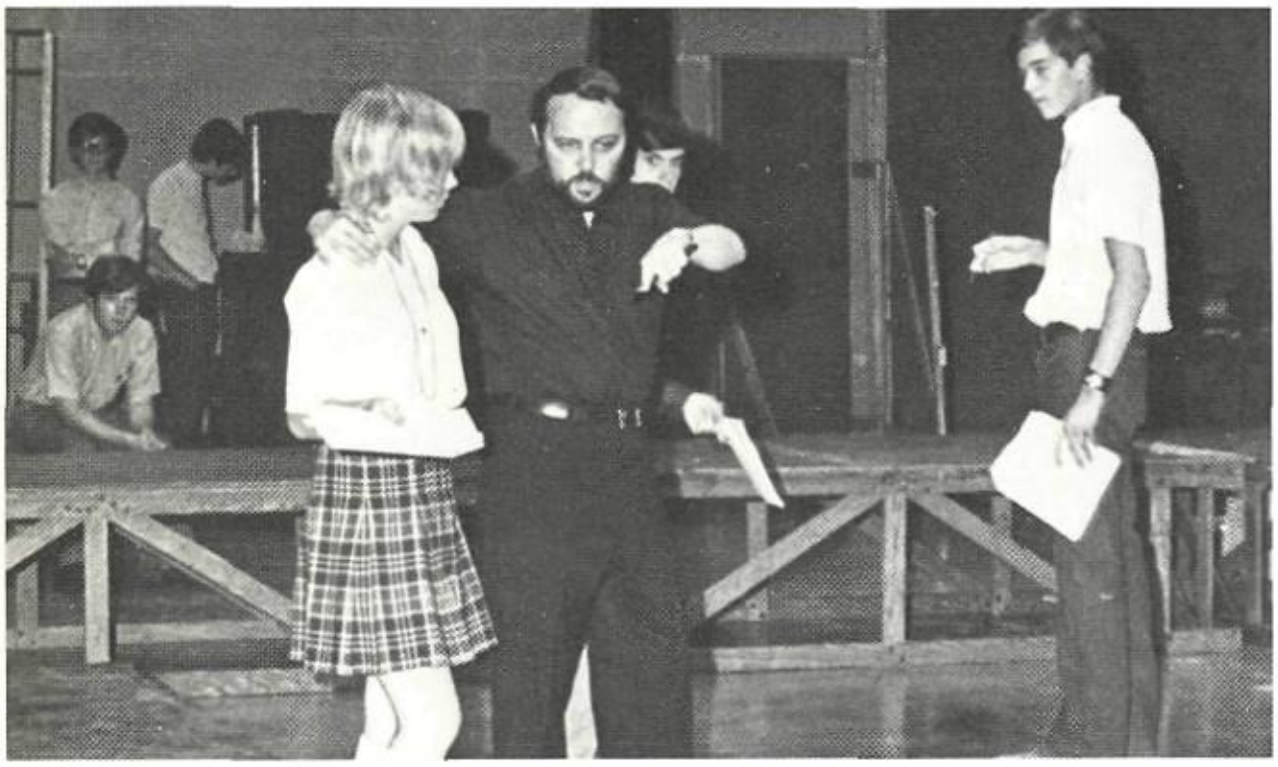

Fourth downs came too often, says Reittinger.

Linehan tackles Unis and saves him from #45.

"Turn Round

Confusion, rushing thoughts, papers, due today, tomorrow?
Oh God.
and then Zapp . . .
in the midst of all the confusion
a chance to reflect,
and to look into ourselves.
I panicked, and screamed,
afraid to see myself,
but there was nothing to protect me from that threat of insecurity.
alone,
forced to look beyond
the pages and dig deep,
past the crowded hallways,
past the shouting crowds,
past the lonely existence
of my own life.
and grasp the inner soul.
for a moment, I found it . . .

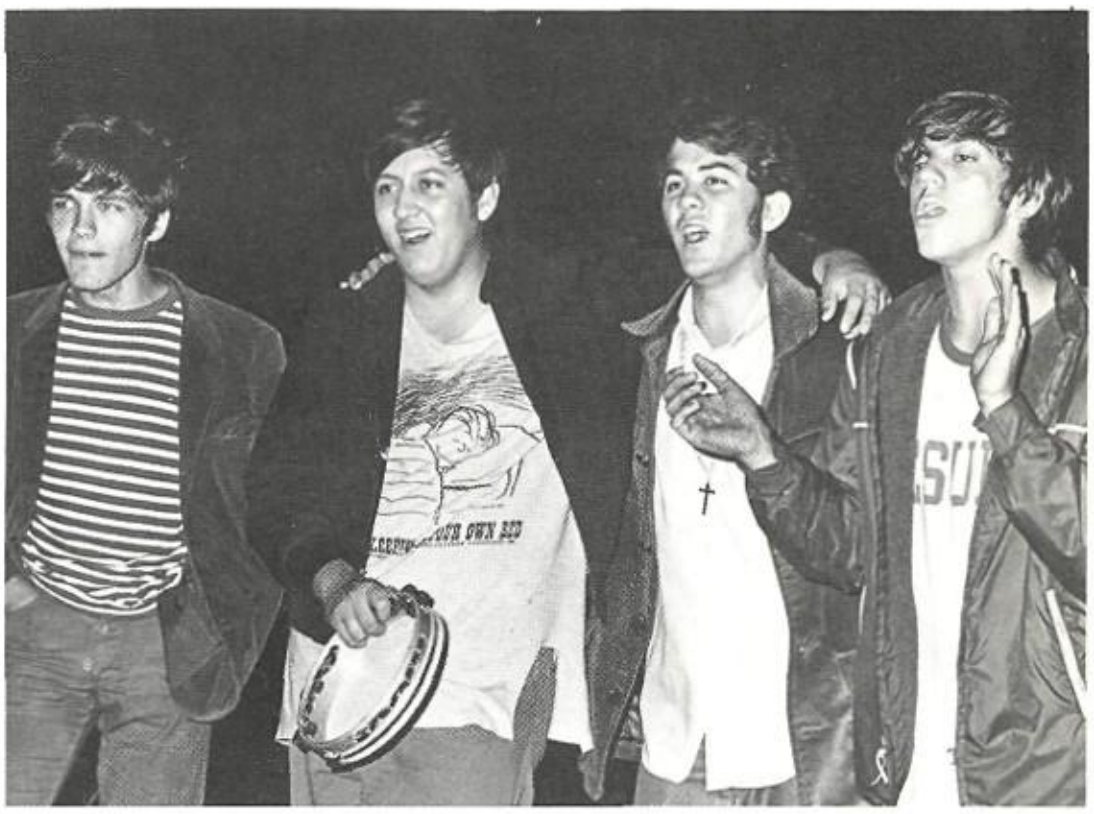

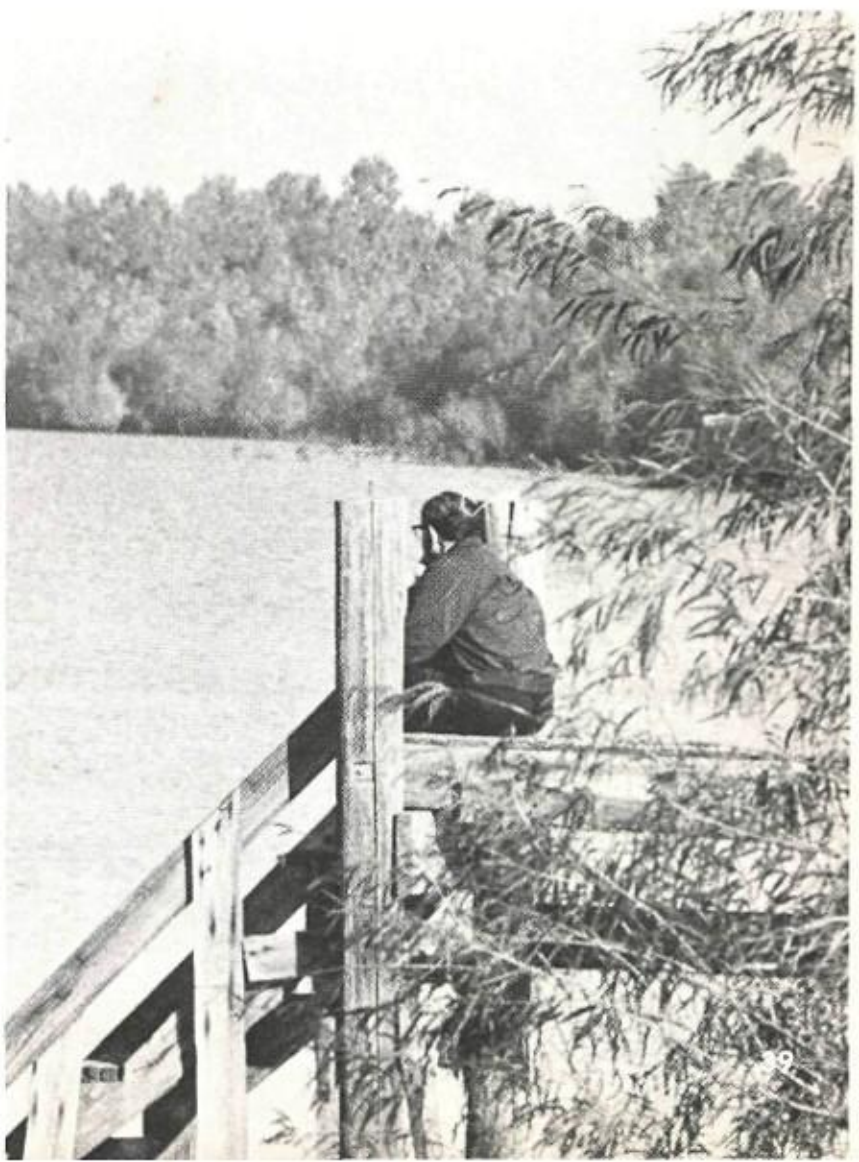

To See"

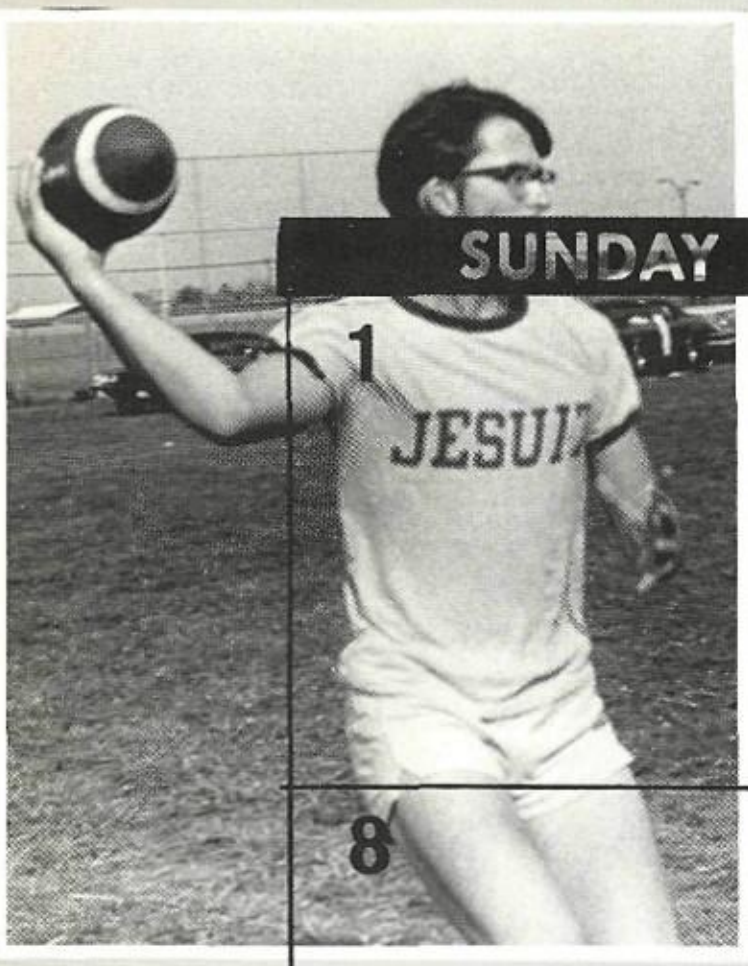

This year's senior class began the school year with the first annual community weekend. The fact that the idea originated within their class was typical of their growing concern for each other. No one is really sure what happened on that weekend, but the obvious result was embedded in the daily life of the school.
Intensification of the result was developed during the retreats. As contrasted to the idea of unity, these retreats entertained a deeper goal — the individual. The seniors feel a deep sense of gratitude to much of the faculty for their help and concern. Never have we communicated so well with the faculty as people.

Rangers Undo Dunne

The Rangers stumbled into district with a 1 and 6 record.
We suffered many disappointments
in those first few games
but a burning spark of hope glowed desperately in our hearts. The spark flickered and flittered threatening to extinguish any thoughts of a district title.
Then suddenly as if someone had spilled gasoline on the spark we realized district remained within our grasp and we "burst into flames"
upon achieving our first victory.
The victory brought new life into the school in hopes of achieving a successful season.

we blew it . . .

We blew it.

. . . You've got a Friend . . .

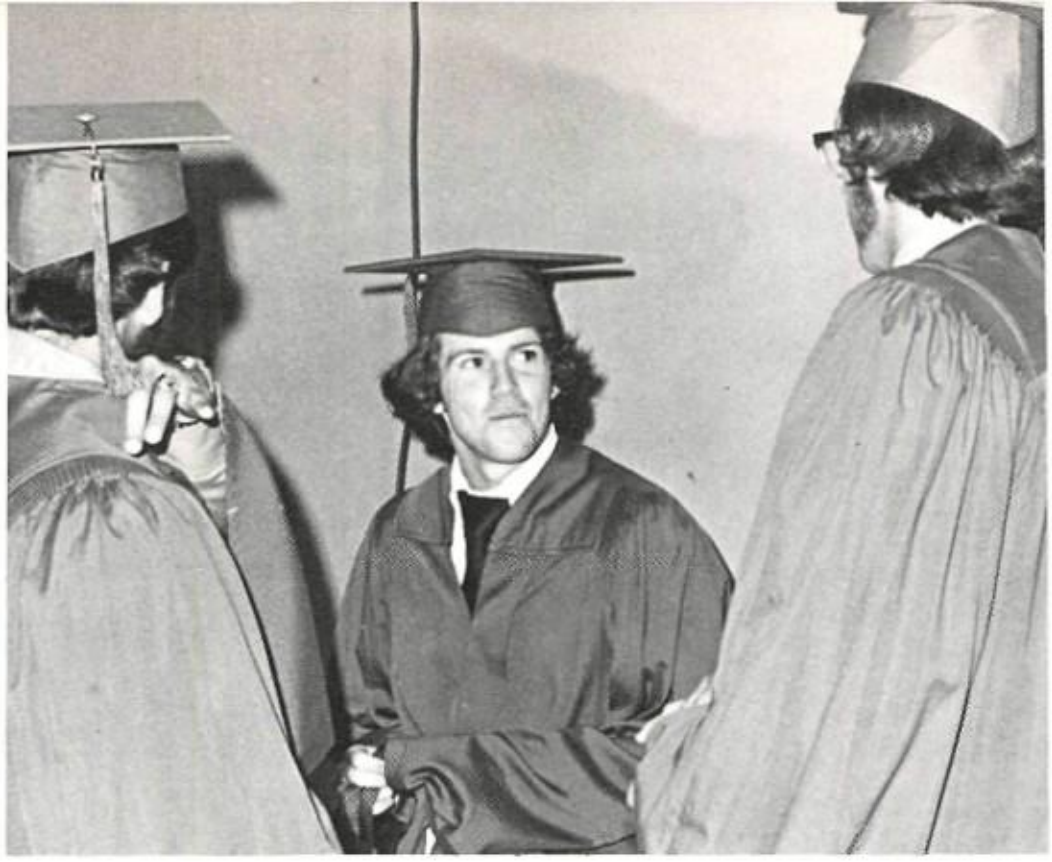

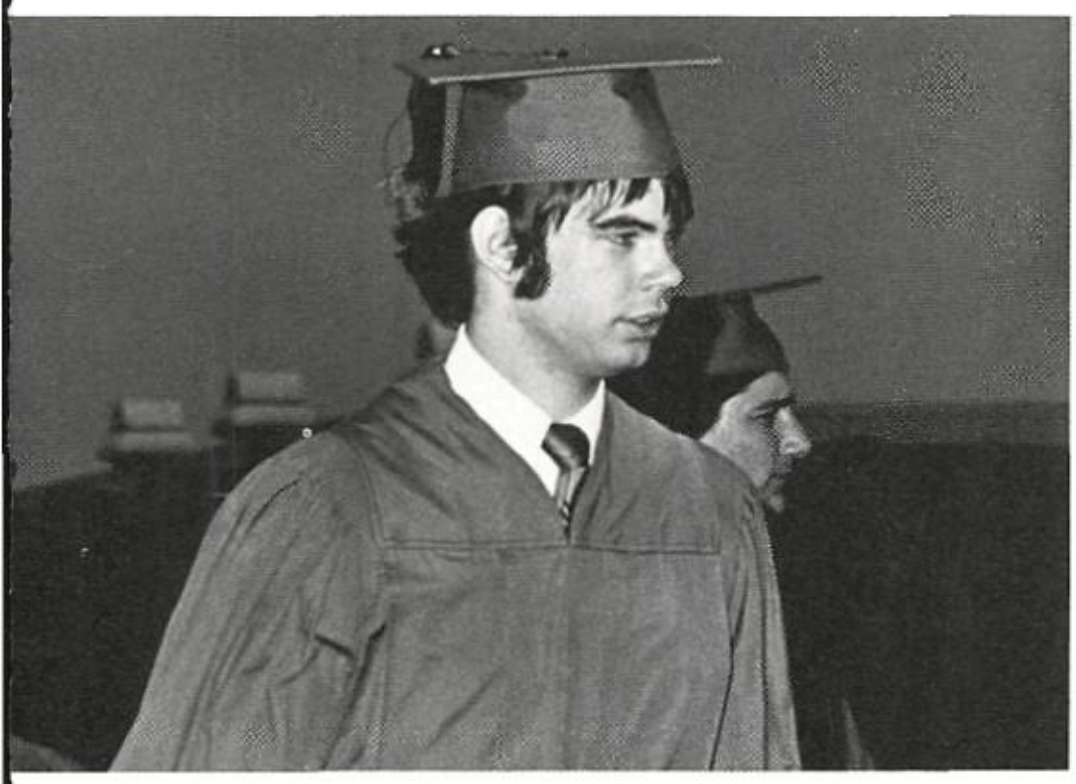

Mixed emotions disturbed us as we, the seniors of 71' gathered for graduation exercises. A realization slowly crept into our minds as we acknowledged this to be our final gathering. The time to perform arrived, could we carry what we experienced to the waiting world?

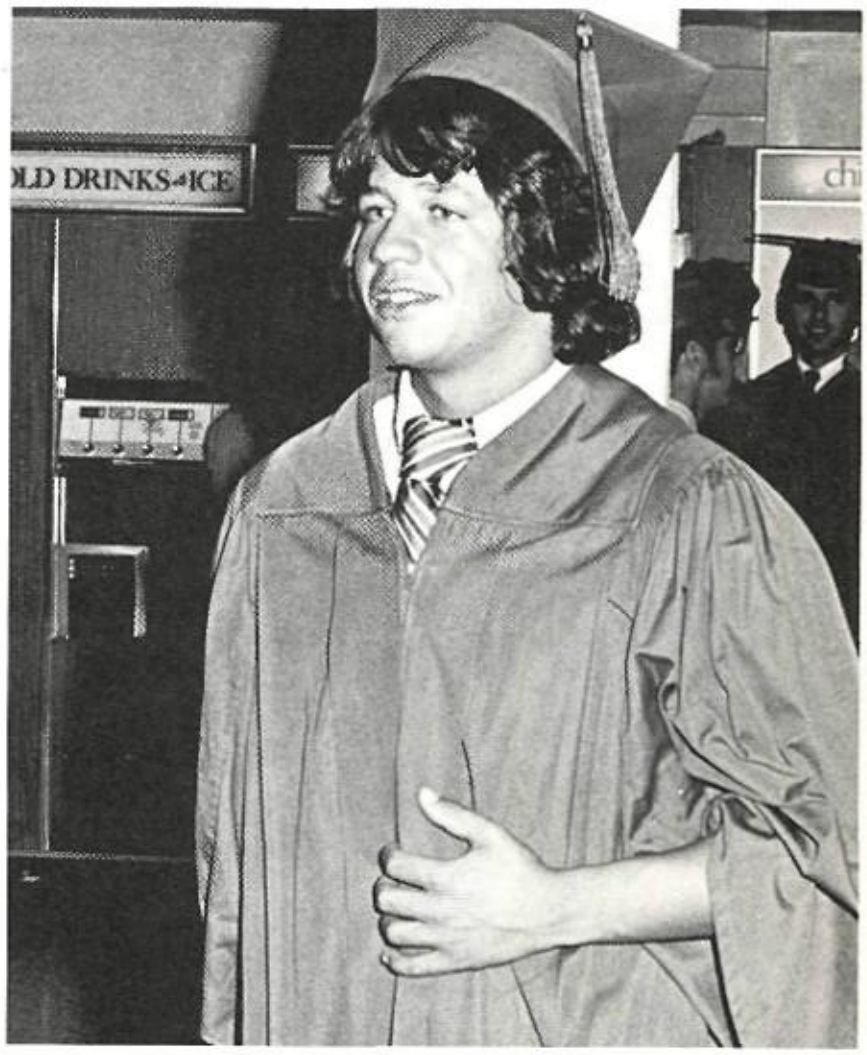

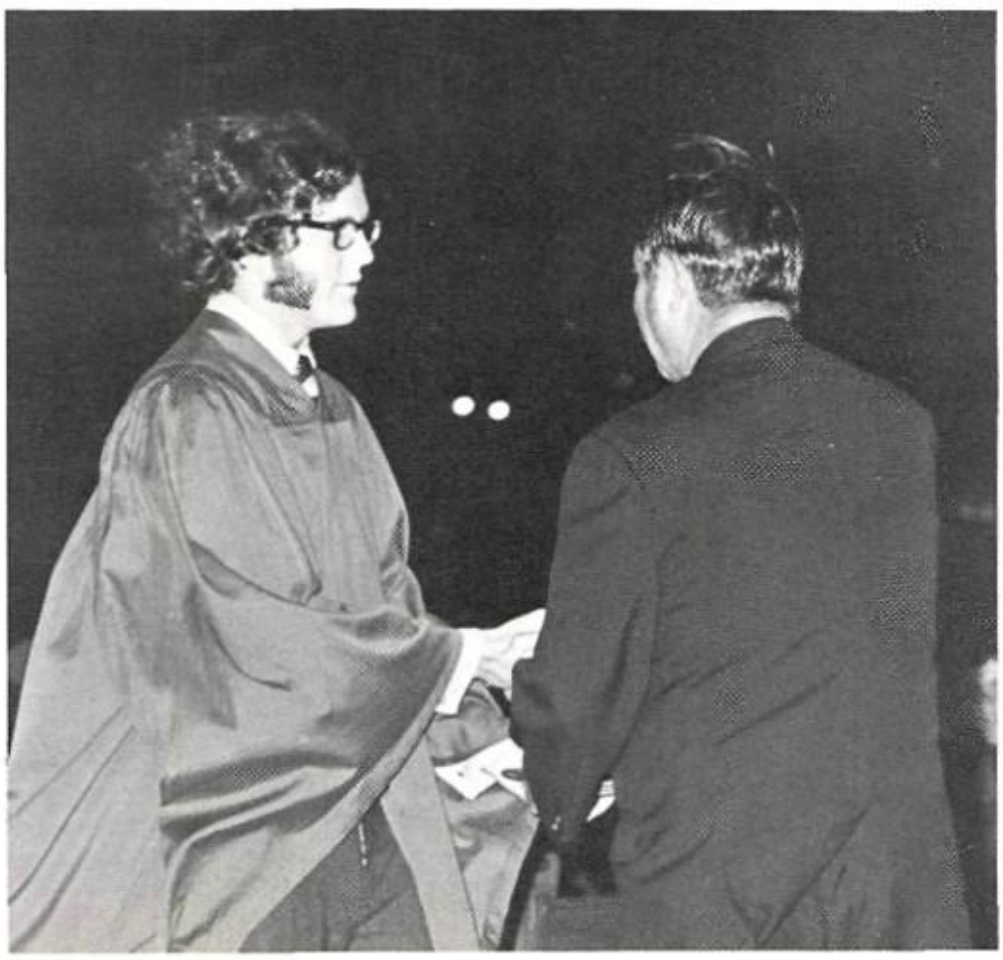

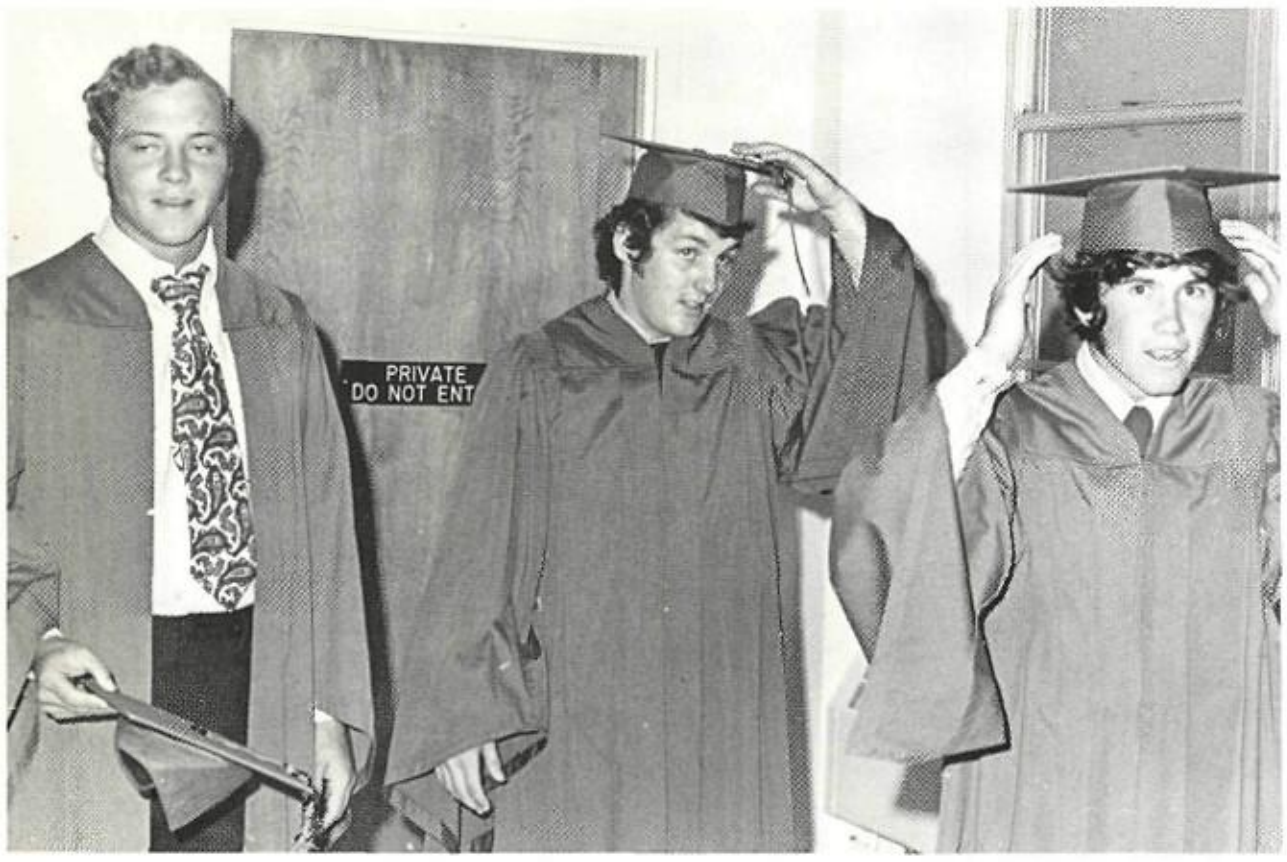

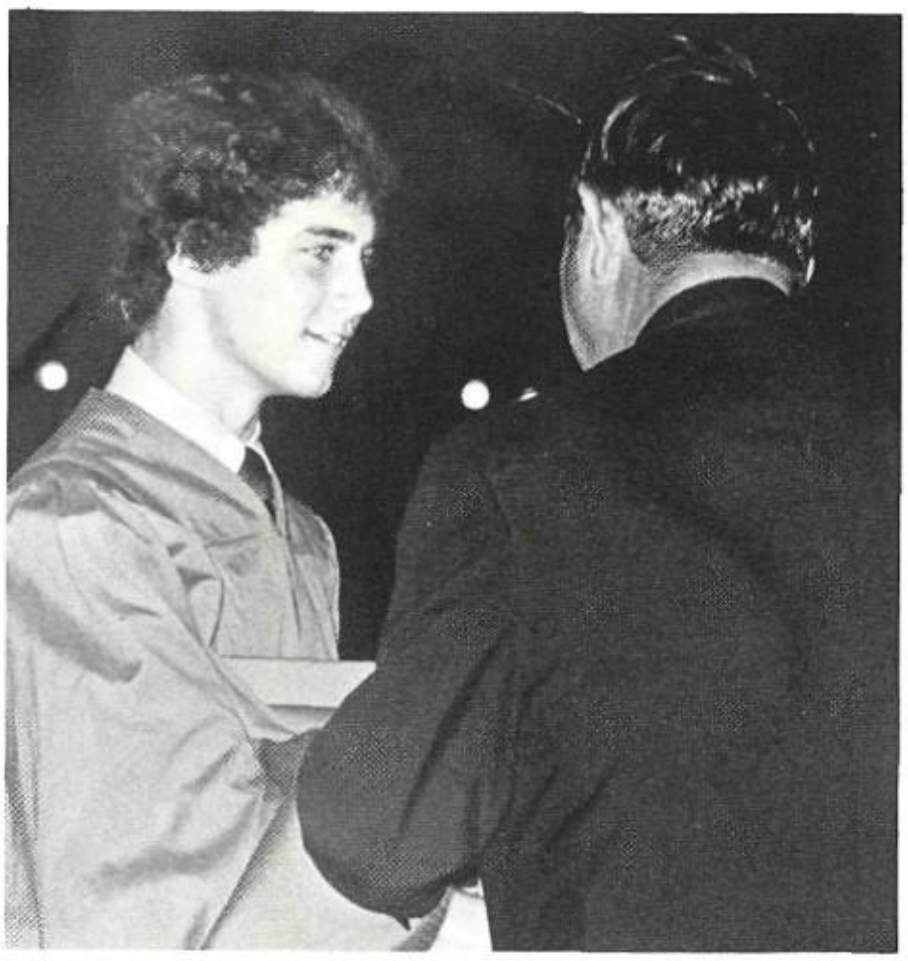

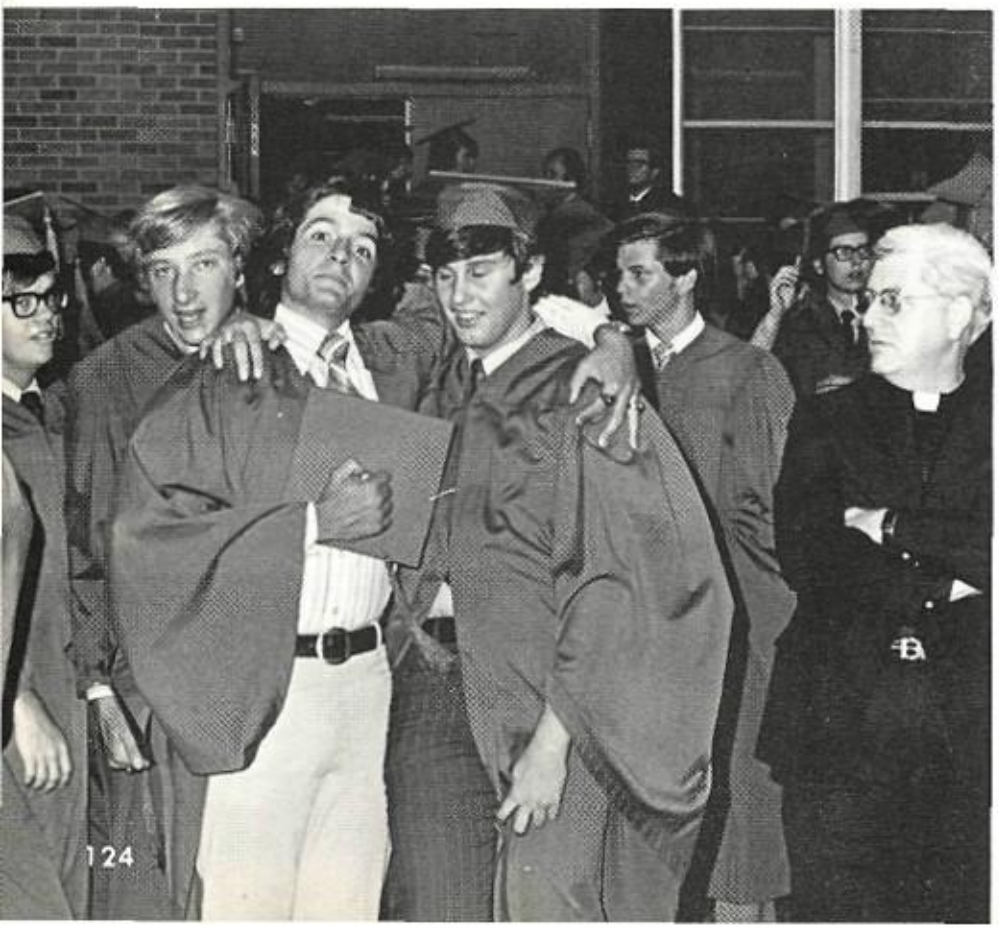

OLD DRINKS-ICE

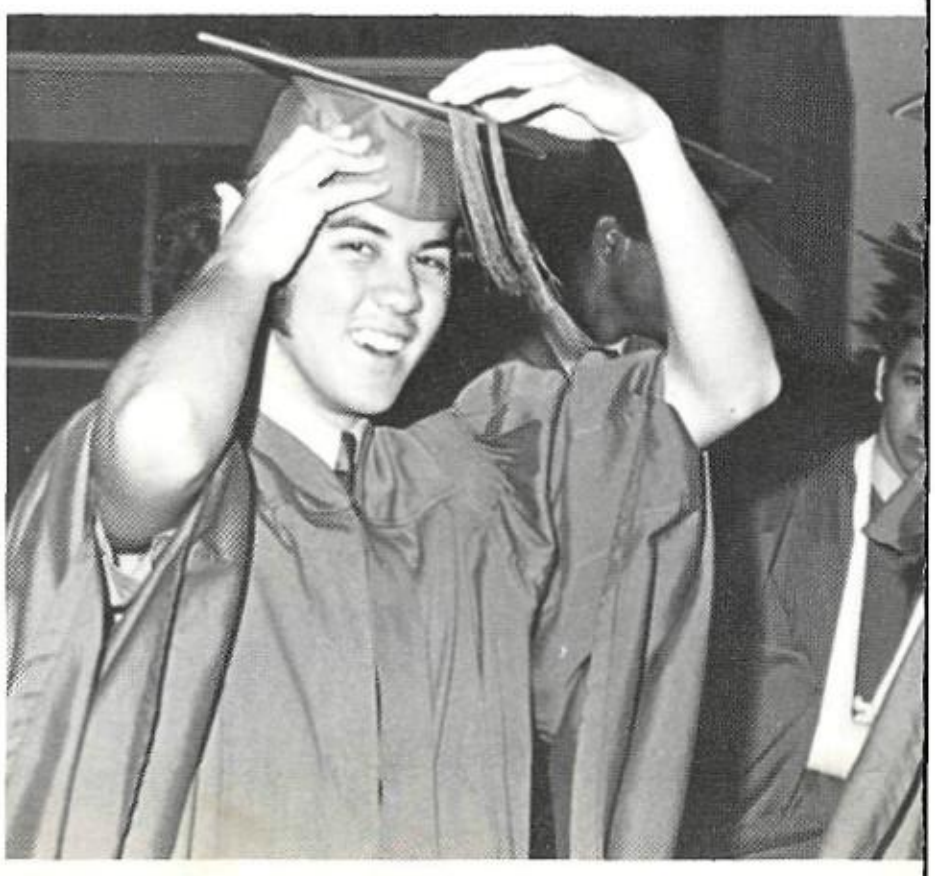

PRIVATE
DO NOT ENT

Flowers grow and bloom, and grow old and leave.
And for a flower to be picked
as it is just blooming,
such an innocent flower,
seems so cruel.
But are we so weak as to grieve selfishly
over the loss of that flower?
So blind as not to see its new and more beautiful meaning?
For in its perfection it is taken to serve in a deeper love
one that is so hard to understand maybe never to be understood by us.
As the prettiest flower has been picked from among us
we must remember it now in its lasting beauty that has touched our lives and rejoice in knowing of that beauty and, perhaps, our own.

SENIORS

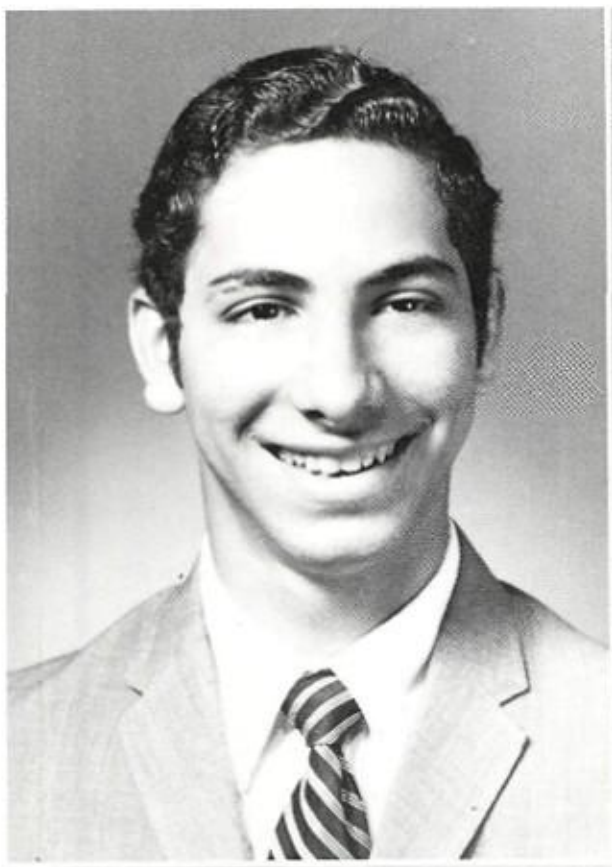

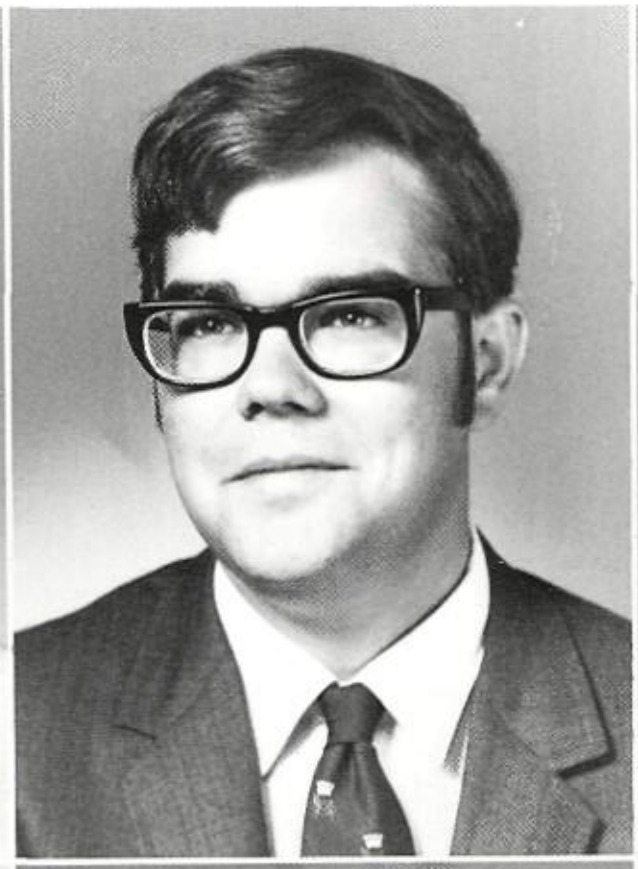

We came, ready maybe to start at the beginning,
to begin a new year, a senior year.
Parading in our new roles, and refreshed minds,
the ghosts of last year's class still haunting us.
People, watching us. Feeling foolish, naked, unsure, all eyes on the curtain.
So many expectations, so much to live up to.
But the curtain could not be stopped,
it rose, into a new year with its new problems,
principal change . . . policies.
no time for that now,
first, to perform . . .

Senior Superlatives

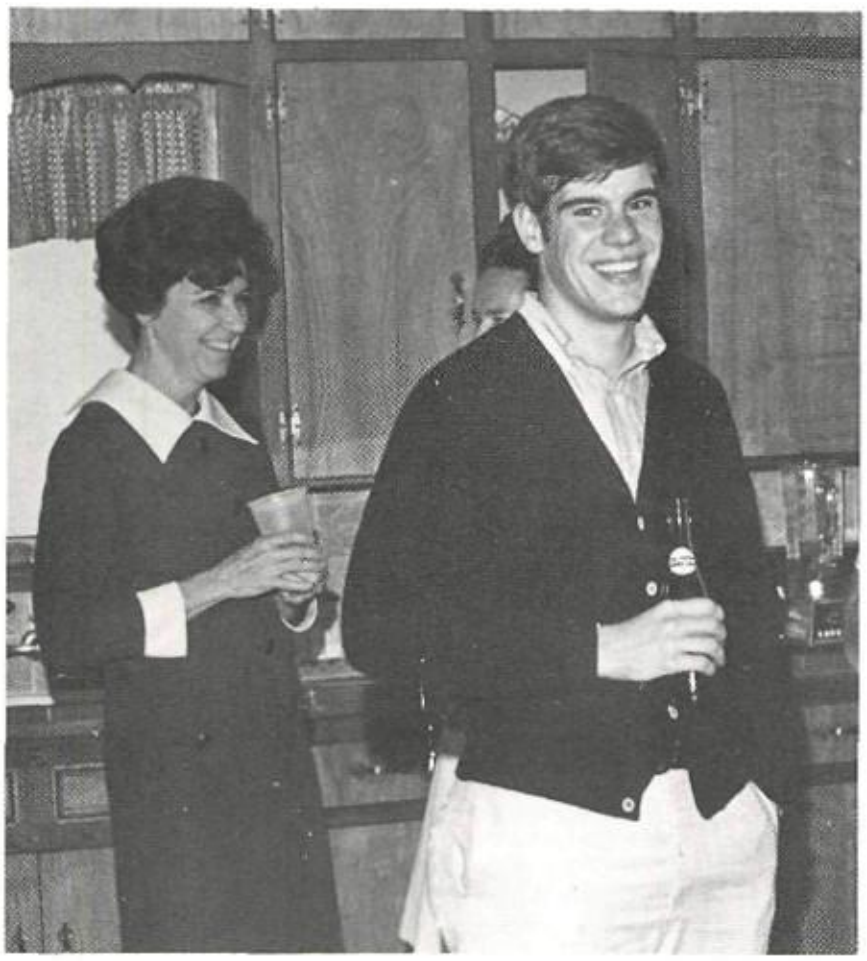

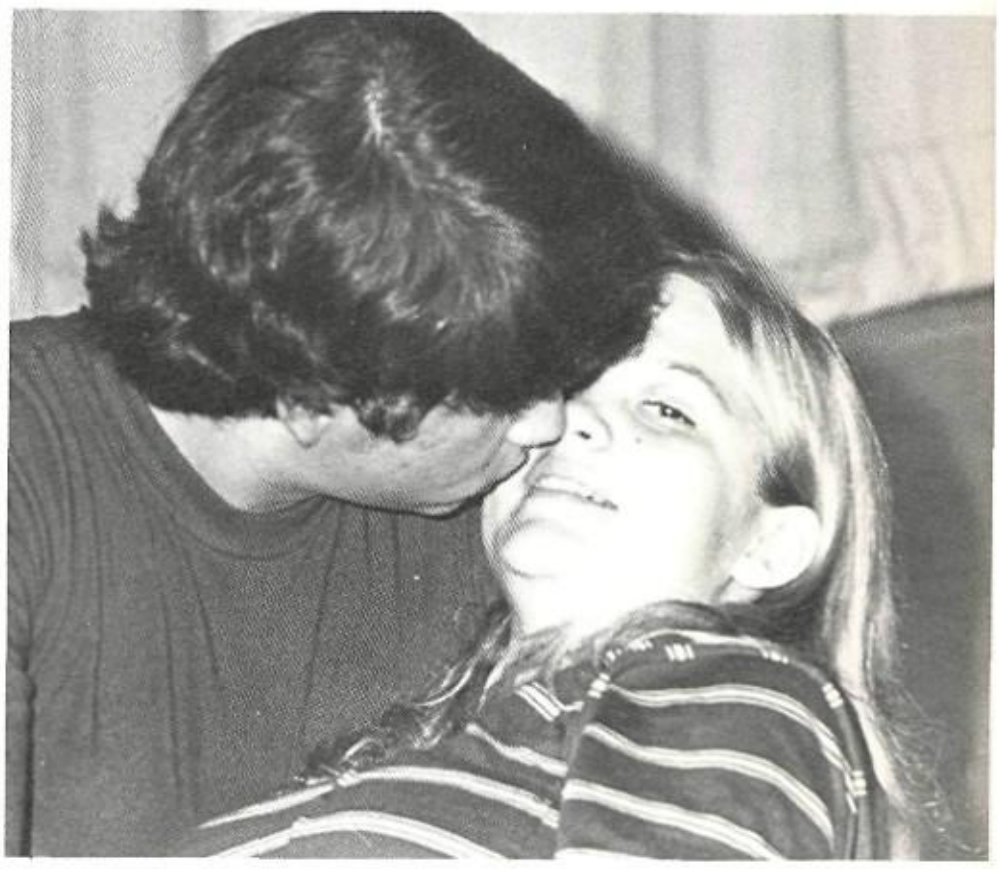

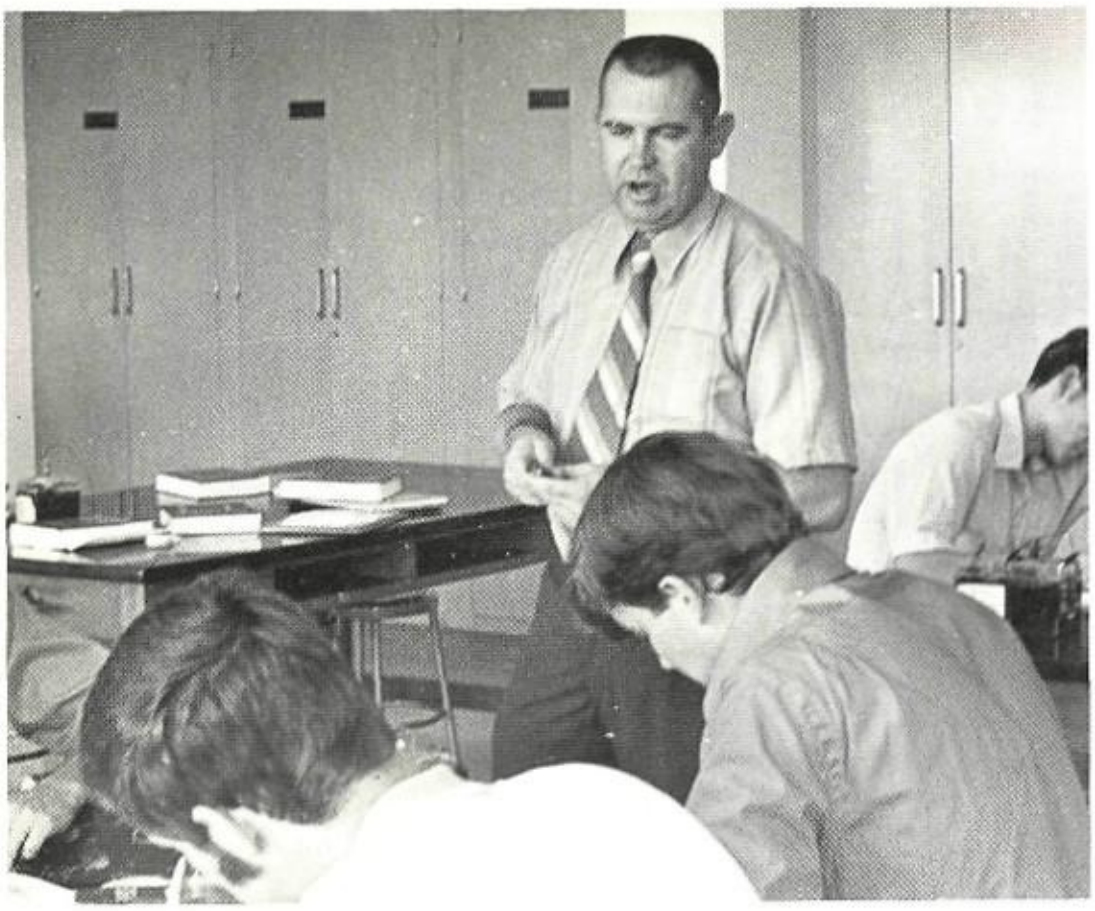

I guess you could say, everyone is superlative in their own way — Ed.

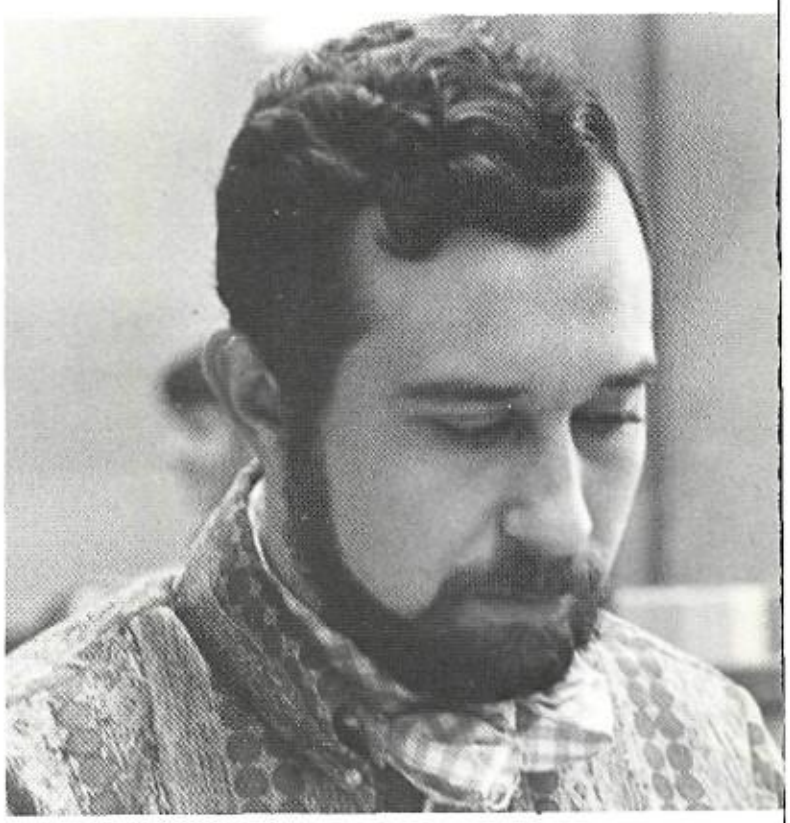

YEAH!
CH I'M GOING TO MEXICO...

. . . The teacher who walks in the shadow of the temple, among his followers, gives not of his wisdom, but rather of his faith and his lovingness . . .

. . . If he is indeed wise
he does not bid you enter his house of wisdom but rather leads you to the threshold of your own mind.

and now our senior year has ended . . . with all that 'High School' stuff behind us, but despite our self-consciousness we realize something has happened here that has made a difference. Something taken and something given, always and never ending. Though absent we forever remain.

Seniors '71

One generation passes and another comes but the world forever stays. The sun rises and the sun goes down; then it presses on to the place where it rises. Blowing toward the north, then toward the south, the wind turns again and again resumes its rounds. All rivers go to the sea, yet never does the sea become full. To the place where they go, the rivers keep on going . . . What has been that will be; what has been done that will be done. Nothing is new under the sun. Even the thing of which we say, "See this new!" has already existed in the ages that preceded us. There is no remembrance of the men of old; nor of those to come will there be any remembrance among those who come after them.

Among the Romans, this meant the right to wear a gold ring, confined to senators, chief magistrates, knights. Among your contemporaries, the right to wear your class ring is reserved for you and your classmates. We're proud that Balfour was given the privilege of crafting it for you.
